Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a powder material for a metal oxide semiconductor manufacturing device and a method of manufacturing a metal oxide semiconductor device using the powder material. 2. Description of the Related Art With a rapid increase in large-screen flat-screen TV's with a diagonal line of about 40 inches as well as large-screen plasma displays and liquid crystal displays, a demand is raised for further increases in large-area display devices, and there have been growing needs for small-size, lightweight, and low-cost display devices. Among various flat-screen display devices, plasma display panels (PDPs) and field emission displays (FEDs) are considered to be candidates for flat-screen display devices that are compact and lightweight. In general, a flat-screen display device includes a scanning unit for driving a display panel and a sustain unit for sustaining an image signal, and the scanning unit and sustain unit are formed of a semiconductor material, and the scanning unit is electrically connected to the sustain unit. FIG. 14 is a plane view showing a partial top view of a portion of a flat-screen display device. As shown in FIG. 14, scan lines 3a, sustain electrodes 3b, and data electrodes 3c are formed in the horizontal direction on a first glass substrate 1, and a dielectric film 2 is formed on the first glass substrate 1 and is filled with a first and second gap material (e.g., glass frit). A second glass substrate (not shown) facing the first glass substrate 1 is attached to the first glass substrate 1 by being aligned to the first glass substrate 1 3e33713323
